THE ABBEY, BATH. The Abbey Church of SS Peter and Paul is supposed to stand on a spot once occupied by a Roman Temple to Minerva. Anciently a Benedictine Monastic Church, the Saxon King Edgar was crowned here in 973. In 1091 it was made a Cathedral. The present Church was begun in 1499 by Bishop King who did not live to complete it. Indeed it was not finished at the dissolution of the Monasteries in 1539, when it was dismantled and left unused until 1584.
